Paymentwall, the leading global payments platform expands with a new European HQ in the startup hotspot Berlin.

[BERLIN: 13-02-2012] - Today, Silicon Valley based global payments platform - Paymentwall officially launches their European Headquarters in the startup capital of Europe - Berlin.

Paymentwall's new European Headquarters is located at the penthouse of Unter den Linden 16, home to branches of Google, Commerzbank, Mercedes, O2 along with several retailers. The building, named Upper East Side is located at the Friedrichstrasse intersection of Unter den Linden was designed by the multi-award winning architecture firm von Grekan, Marg and Partners (GMP).

The interior design and custom furniture were imported from the United States and Italy. Vela Design in Turkey was commissioned for the interior design. The design features futuristic all-LED lighting throughout and custom furniture pieces which include a one of a kind LED conference table.

Paymentwall's German subsidiary Paymentwall GmbH will be serving the European market, and it will provide enhanced payment solutions and access for developers to other global markets when monetizing their digital goods, virtual currency or downloads.

Paymentwall is one of the first Silicon Valley tech companies to establish a European subsidiary in Berlin. "Berlin was chosen as our EU HQ after extensive market research by our team, and after looking at Barcelona, London and Hamburg as contenders, Berlin with its diversity, culture and burgeoning startup industry made it a perfect match for us. Berlin attracts the kind of people we want to associate with, and with the new Airport, Berlin will certainly be a hub that will bridge our offices in San Francisco, Kiev and Istanbul," says Paymentwall CEO, Honor Gunday.

Paymentwall is also hiring for 12 key positions at their European HQ, specifically in Project Management, Marketing, Business Development and Customer Service. Visit www.paymentwall.com/jobs to learn more about the exciting career opportunities awaiting the right candidates.
